A wide-angle landscape photograph of a deep canyon. A river flows through the valley, creating several sharp bends. The canyon walls are composed of layered rock, with distinct horizontal sedimentary layers and vertical erosion streaks. The upper slopes are covered in dense green vegetation, while the lower areas are more exposed and rocky. The sky is clear and blue.

How do you find the story?

A landscape photograph of a canyon. The scene is dominated by towering, layered rock walls in shades of red, orange, and brown. The sunlight is low, casting long shadows and illuminating the tops of the cliffs. In the foreground, a sandy beach meets a calm, dark lake. Several large, weathered boulders are scattered on the shore. The sky is a clear, pale blue with a few wispy clouds.
